Board of Trade Banquet.

A Large Attendance, a Bountiful Dinner and Enthusiastic Speakers.

The Annual Board of Trade banquet was held Tuesday evening, Jan. 20th, at the Grange Hall, with about 125 present. The dinner was served by the Norway Grange and was one of the best the Grange have ever served.

The following was the menu:—

Grape Fruit
Cold Roast Chicken
Escalloped Oysters
Boiled Ham
Cranberry Sauce
Mashed Potato
Celery
Hot Rolls
Harlequin Ice Cream
Assorted Cake
Bananas
Grapes
Tea
Cigars

The young ladies of the Grange, in charge of Mrs. F. F. Swan, acted as waitresses.

During the supper hour music was furnished by Milken's orchestra.

Hon. A. J. Stearns was chosen toastmaster and after dinner the company repaired to the hall for the after-dinner speeches.

Mr. Stearns in opening his remarks spoke of M. V. Terhune of Boston who was unable to be present the night and referred to his remarks at the dinner served at the Beals Tavern, last week, in honor of Mr. Terhune.

Mr. Stearns spoke of many of the advantages of Norway village affairs, that we should all hold for Norway. The village with its five stores, its hotel and its scenic beauties. He stated that no set subjects for the evening were assigned and that the speakers were to talk upon what they wished.

The first speaker called on was Don C. Seitz of New York, not only a resident of a distant city, but a prosperous farmer in our midst. Mr. Seitz said that he might say some things that would not suit but he must say them. The village of Norway is fortunate, it has good schools, a good sewerage system, a good water system and is going to have good roads. Ever since the B. F. Spinyee Co. came here 43 years ago, there could not do anything for fear the factory was going away. Now the time is come. This is a commercial center for the outlying county and the soil must be increased to yield more. The whole town shouldn't go down because one thing has gone down. He also spoke of the road question and urged that the town keep on in its improvement of its roads. In closing he spoke of the town in his boyhood days and his old friends he has. He urged that the town find what it wants and then go get it.

Mr. Stearns spoke of the road hearing at Kumford, introducing the road question and called on John A. Roberts who said it seemed good to have after a great absence to greet his friends and acquaintances. He spoke in regard to the fixing up of the roads in this vicinity as they had been bad long enough and he for one would like to be able to carry produce from his farm over better roads. Another thought expressed was along agricultural lines. Twenty-two thousand barrels of apples were shipped from the Norway station and only two stations in the state shipped more and one of them was Buckfield, an Oxford County town, which shipped two hundred barrels more. Our apples in Maine are the best and are superior to those of the west and we can increase the product. In our midst is a corn factory and we can raise more corn. This is the kind of support double the number of cows, raise double the amount of crops and increase the poultry industry. The soil is the greatest resource and there is need of men of business to go upon the farms. The need of markets. The farmer and the market of the villages should get together and keep the business together instead of sending off for produce. The farmer also needs the help of the banking system to facilitate their work.

E. McIntire of Waterford said that in the earlier days the men put their surplus money in the bank; didn't build roads, nor put much into their farms because they lacked faith, but this has changed. There is a demand for stock of all kinds and the only relief is to raise that stock and there was never so good a prospect for the state of Maine as now and it applies locally. In closing his remarks he said we should all draw a lesson from the Norway village, a hen lays, she stands up and proclaims it for all she is worth and every one in the range of her voice knows it, and her eggs are in great demand all over the world. Don't let the hen beat us. We should be like her and have all its interests, at all times and in all ways, possible.

H. D. Smith of Norway was called on, who spoke of the new currency law. He gave a brief outline of the old bank and the new and stated how the times of straits the banks were strained. Both parties have been trying to guard against panics, by making a more elastic currency by mobilizing their resources. Under this new law, the country is to be divided into districts with a regional bank and all national banks must go in or their charter will be taken away.

B. J. McIntire of Waterford, a member of the State Board of Assessors, told of his early recollections of Norway. There has always been the best of harmony between the people of Norway and "The friends in the west," and each has been helpful to the other. He referred to the time of the fire how afterwards the village was restored even better than before and that in the same manner the future of Norway may be better than the past. The Board of Trade has the opportunity to work to bring in some industry. In some places as a new scheme is being tried. If the concerns will make a radical increase, they will be exempt from taxes for 10 years. He believed firmly in the wealth of the town and the state and would do all in his power to aid.

Labot Mundy was called on for remarks. Mr. Mundy is an author, who has recently come to Norway, to make his home for the present. He spoke of several of his experiences while in Africa, in assisting in the building up of a town. The first which came was the desire to raise cotton, then came the industry, then good roads.

H. L. Horne gave a brief history of the different industries in town during the past 30 years, which he has been acquainted with. Our village has the four essential things, churches, schools, water works and sewerage system and the roads will be taken care of. In his closing remarks, he spoke of the school system.

Thomas Smiley of Portland, spoke of the loss to the town said it was the height of folly to be discouraged, and to grumble. We have hardly realized what the merchants have done until we come to a crisis, and we have a great opportunity to help the town. He firmly believes a right town for Norway. There are men in town who are able to carry on the work that the others have commenced. Norway is superior to many towns with its wide variety of stores, and we must keep the standard up and go through the surrounding country and impress it on the people's minds and secure their trade.

The last speaker of the evening was H. B. Foster. He reviewed the work of the committee on the shoe shop matter, telling of the letter written to different firms and of the investigating visits made by the committee at different places. He also spoke on the road question at some length, telling of the work the committee had done. A wide advertisement campaign is being carried on a large list of firms are to be written to concerning the factory.

20th Annual Clerks' Ball. The 20th Annual Clerks' Ball will be held at the Norway Opera House, Tuesday evening, Feb. 10th. Raymond H. Eastman will be floor manager; aids, L. V. Ashton, E. N. Farham, W. C. Goodwin, E. D. Packard, H. A. Richardson, F. E. Smith; reception committee, all the lady clerks.

Resident Employees of the Norway Shoe Shops.

It comes to the notice of the writer that the resident employees of the B. F. Spinyee Company say there is no need of their making out cards because everybody in town knows where they are. The fact that they are in town does not convey anything to the mind of many of the people who might be interested in this shop unless they have produced evidence for signing these cards. Hence it is of the utmost importance that the local people should sign and send in their cards to Box 235.

Is It Your Kidneys?

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Trouble

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is where the danger often lies. You should realize that these troubles often lead to dropsy or Bright's disease. An effective remedy for weak or diseased kidneys is Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of this vicinity are constantly testifying.

Mrs. C. F. Ware, Pleasant street, South Paris, Me., says: "One of my family suffered from kidney trouble. There were sharp, shooting pains through the small of the back and dizzy spells and headaches. On a friend's advice Doan's Kidney Pills were used. They gave prompt relief."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Weak Kidneys often the Result of Overwork. On several occasions I have been unable to work and suffered severe pains in the back, due to my kidneys. I called on a doctor of Ripon, Wis. but received no relief. I tried Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which gave me instant relief. I was then able to resume work. Swamp-Root is the only relief I can get from kidney disease which I am subject to in the spring of the year. I am writing this testimonial through my own free will that sufferers of kidney and bladder diseases will know of the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root. I recommend Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root whenever I can and always have a bottle of Swamp-Root in my home. I purchased Swamp-Root of Mr. C. J. Burnside, Druggist, of 202 Main Street, Ripon, Wis. Very truly yours, THOMAS J. LYNCH, 525 Newbury Street, Ripon, Wis. I have read the above statement that Thomas J. Lynch bought Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root at my store and made oath the above statement is true in substance and fact. E. J. Burnside, Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of November, 1911. F. A Memory System.

Forget the slander that you hear As soon as you have done it; Forget the praise that falls to you The moment you have won it; Forget the star that shines on you Before you can repeat it; Forget each worry and distress; sneer Whenever you may meet it. Remember every kindness done To you, whatever its measure; Remember every promise made, And keep it to the letter; Remember those who lend you aid, And be a grateful debtor. Be hopeful and forgiving; Forget each worry and distress; Remember good, remember truth, Remember heaven's above you, And you will find, through age and youth, True joys and hearts to love you.

Grandma's Valentine.

Yellow and old, it is laid away With tokens of a happy time. A quaint little page with its border of flowers. With a heart, and a faded rhyme. Soars the yearning of love So faint has become each line, Since grandma asked her so long ago To bring the love-light to her eyes, And she wanders far away. By the shores of yesterday; In her party dress of pink brocade She dances the minuet. Her stately partner, with curls of lace She can see his fond look yet.

The stars shine on their homeward way, The fields are gleaming white. As she whispers "Yes" to the sleigh bells tune, So, faithfully, for many a year They love in storm or shine; And to-day she lives in the land of dreams, With her own true valentine!

Bethel, Dec. 25th.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perley Andrus in Bethel, Christmas day was a large gathering of relatives and friends. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Andrus, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beckler and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Imman and two boys, Maud Beckler, Mr. and Mrs. Andrews and daughter Nellie, Roy Lord was also invited. They had some very fine music rendered by the following: Edgar Andrews, 1st violin; Harry Imman, 2nd violin while Myrtle Beckler presided at the piano. Though only a child she shows great talent.

A fine Christmas dinner was served by the hostess. A very pleasant day was enjoyed by all. There was a Christmas tree heavily laden with many costly and beautiful presents. Roy Lord was the recipient of some very nice presents, wishing to express his gratitude to those present for their kindness to him, he sends this little poem as a token. Following is a poem written by him for the occasion.

Christmas Day.

Christmas Day dawned fair and clear, And many good people gathered here To greet their friends with Christmas cheer. As we gathered around the Christmas tree, Such a happy time we all had there, Life and music everywhere.

The color of dinner was in the air. All were happy, gay and free. There was a feast on the Christmas tree. Edgar Andrews, the first violin did play, Harry Imman was second there that day, And Myrtle Beckler, young and gay Played the piano, fine and free. All day long at the Christmas tree, Their kindness I shall not soon forget, Though cars and trouble of my feet, Its memory will linger with me yet. I hope again some day to see you. Then all on one more a Christmas tree, North Newry, Me. adv. 1807 H. Lord.

These appalling facts should warn

One Bitter Memory of Childhood Gone

CASTOR OIL IS TASTELESS NOW

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil Is Pure, Yet Without Taste or Smell.

Now that castor oil is tasteless, a perfect laxative has arrived.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil, a new product of the Kellogg oil mills, is so absolutely without taste or smell that even the children do not object to it.

Good bye, drugs and pills.

Castor Oil has come into its own again. Doctors have always recommended it.

The Kellogg way of making it does not take a single bit of good out of castor oil; rather it purifies the oil and makes it more effective.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil does even better work than the old-fashioned kind. Sold at all drug stores in 25c and 50c bottles, not in bulk. Ask for it by name or you may be given the old kind, mixed or flavored.

The signature, Kellogg's, is on every bottle, in a green castor leaf trade mark.

Made only by Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., refiners of vegetable oils.

Everybody Wants to Shirk Service.

Small Favors and Duties Are Considered Debasing in the "Land of the Free."

Everybody in this land of the free wants to be a "boss."

The idea of any sort of service is abhorrent and even the small wage worker gives all to understand that he, or she, is far above his work, and ought to be bossing others instead of obeying.

The idea has even worked into the home. Girls refuse to obey their fathers—it would be a disgrace to perform any loving service for the "old man." Let him get a valet!

There was a time when a good wife delighted in serving her good man—when she thought it no menial task to see that his slippers and his old coat were warmed and ready for his home coming and the big chair placed in the most comfortable angle beside the reading table for "him." But now-days, no matter how tired the husband is, he can help himself. A wife is no servant!

There was a time, too, when a man thought it his duty as a householder to do certain chores about the house.
He attended to the lawn in summer, to the snowy sidewalks in winter. He mended broken fences and kept them painted. He was a generally useful person about the premises. He was proud of his little culinary abilities, which he exercised when the need arose.

But now! Consider the men you know, who consider themselves too good to do such work. They know men who won't even carry home a loaf of bread for fear somebody might see them and class them with workingmen.

The other day I wished to call a friend on the telephone. Finding her telephone out of order, I called up the residence of a neighbor (a "newly rich") and asked if she would be good enough to call my friend to the 'phone.
This was the reply that came snap-ply over the wire:

"I'm nervous of yours. Get somebody else to do your running for you."
To my mind, that reply really put the woman in the mental class which she tried so hard to escape. A bigger mind would have been glad to oblige.

It is always the love-minded—those who have never had social or educational advantages and no pride of birth who are always fearful that they might serve and who look down upon those who do serve.

the picture of health and vitality.

I find that the stomach is a constant need of some safe remedy. A disordered stom-worms, either stomach worms or pinworms. 445

AN IDEAL WOMAN'S LAXATIVE.

WOMAN REFUSES OPERATION

Tells How She Was Saved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Logansport, Ind. — "My baby was over a year old and I bloated till I was a burden to myself. I suffered from female trouble so I could not stand on my feet and I felt like millions of needles were pricking me all over. At last my doctor told me that all that would save me was an operation, but this I refused. I told my husband to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I would try it before I would submit to any operation. He did so and I improved right along. I am now doing all my work and feeling fine.

"I hope other suffering women will try your Compound. I will recommend it to all I know." — Mrs. DANIEL D. B. DAVIS, 110 Franklin St., Logansport, Ind.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Origin of a Song.
There are few children in this country who have not heard the nursery rhyme sung by mother:
"Rockaby, baby, in the tree-top,
When the wind blows, the cradle will rock;
When the bough breaks, the cradle will fall,
And down will come cradle, baby and all."
How many are the origin of these lines? Shortly after our forefathers landed at Plymouth, Mass., a party was out in the fields where the Indian women were picking strawberries.
Seven of these squaws had paposes, and having no cradles, had tied them to Indian fashion, hung from the limbs of the surrounding trees.
When the wind blew these cradles would rock. A young man of the party, observing this, pealed off a piece of syncopated bark and on it wrote the well-known lines.

The valuation of Oxford County, as made and returned by the local board of assessors for 1912, was $18,017,325; for 1913, $18,304,195; an increase of $286,870. The total valuation of Maine for 1912, was $416,981,264; for 1913, $430,025,482; an increase of $13,044,218.

State Highways.
There appears to be a misunderstanding regarding the mission of the State highways which the commission has recently laid out. Members of the grange and certain newspapers, as well as individuals all over Maine, have the idea, apparently, that these State highways, as they are called, are being laid out as great scenic boulevards for the sole use of automobilists and pleasure seeking tourists.
This idea is entirely wrong, as on the contrary the proposed routes cover the principal business thoroughfares of the State and handle the greater part of highway commerce of Maine.
An important point which seems to be lost by the people starting the agitation against these roads is that the law requires them. One of the principal features of the new highway is that it calls for this interlocking, intercountry system of State highways as the Highway Commission has laid it out.
Another point which these people overlook is that these same State highways, in nine out of ten cases, are the very ones which the towns designate for the expenditure of their State-aid money. In other words these State highways constitute the principal roads of the towns through which they pass and are the ones which handle the greater part of the business of these towns and whose improvement is most required by the farmers.

If one stops to think, he will realize that this is a fact. These very roads now designated as State Highways are the ones which the towns have been improving with State-aid money as those most needed to be in good condition and best suited to serve their needs. This same condition will be found practically all over the State.
Of course there are exceptions but these are few in number and apply only to towns not on the main arteries of travel and to take care of these a system of cross country State-aid roads, selected by the towns themselves, will be laid out to connect with the main trunk lines. These roads, in every way, will be as good as the so-called State highways and will be laid out to best suit the needs of the town.

Thus it can be seen that the State highways and improved roads are laid out with the idea of accommodating the individual towns making it possible for the people of the smaller places to have heavy loads to the market in the larger towns or city and thus result in cheap transportation for the farmer.
On the other hand, however, it must be remembered that tourist travel always seeks the improved highway and for this reason these roads when completed will be called upon to handle twice and possibly three times as much traffic as they do at the present time and therefore should be built with this idea in view.

We think our coldest wave has passed over our spring is near. A letter from Denver, Col., says coldest and most snow there in December that was ever known. Our old state of Maine is, good enough. Cold weather diseases are infectious. By proper ventilation and regard to rules of health Maine is as healthy a state to live in as Colorado. Do not spit all around, well or sick, destroy with fire what is coughed up. Remember your good manners. How many housekeepers know how to dust a room? Use a mop for the floor and a duster for furniture so none of the damp will fly in the air. We know of a poor sick man who was killed by breathing in dusty air from day to day and his wife did not know any better than to use a wing and brush the room full of dust. Health of home and school is very essential.

Stone Quarry Made into Landscape Feature.
Now an abandoned stone quarry, located in the middle of an otherwise desirable tract of land, was made into a picturesque lake with rock ledge shores, and now forms the central feature in an unusually beautiful garden, is explained and illustrated in the February number of Popular Mechanics Magazine.
This garden is a good example of the modern tendency in landscape art to accept conditions as they are and either to transform undesirable features into parts of the design or, if the feature is hopeless, mask it in such a way that it does not spoil the composition.
In the early days of landscape art in America, this stone quarry, which now gives point and meaning to an artistic composition, would have been filled, or the idea of using the plot for residence and garden purposes would have been abandoned entirely. It is said that the inspiration for this treatment came from the gardens of Mexico.

EAST STONEHAM.

After months of extreme suffering, Ephraim McKean passed to the higher life, December 30th. He was the son of Hiram and Ruth (McAllister) McKean and was born in Stoneham, where he resided the most of his life. He was a veteran of the Civil War and a member of the Post, G. A. R.
He married, Mary McAllister, who died seven years ago. They reared a large family, four of whom are living: Mrs. Ardella Russell of North Waterford, Mrs. Louise Curtis of East Stoneham, Amos and Freeman McKean of North Lovell. His home has been with his son Amos since the death of his wife.
His health has been poor for several years and for the past year he has been seriously ill but has received the kindest care from his son Amos and wife, who have done all they could to alleviate his suffering. He was a kind, benevolent and father, a good neighbor, a genial, pleasant, acquaintance and will be greatly missed by his family and friends.
M. O. Baltzer, the officiating clergy, man, spoke words of comfort; several beautiful hymns were sung by W. S. Butters and wife, Mrs. Susie Gammon and E. S. Bartlett, in their usual pleasant manner, with Mrs. Gammon accompanying. The bearers were: Percy McKean, John Kimball, Harry Hill and Fred Warren. The floral offerings were beautiful and showed the esteem and respect of relatives and friends. A number of the G. A. R. men were present at the funeral, which was conducted by G. H. Brown of Lovell. Interment was in the family lot in Pine Grove Cemetery.

Lester Fogg went to Norway on business, last week.
Percy McKean has bought a handsome red Durham cow.
Mrs. Sophy K. McAllister has been visiting relatives at East Stoneham.
Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Allen of East Stoneham visited at C. F. Wilson's, Sunday.

Florence Smith has been with her sister, Mrs. Fred Warren, for a short stay.
The next meeting of the Willing Workers, will be with Mrs. Lee Andrews.
Mrs. E. B. McAllister has returned from Massachusetts, where she has been for three weeks.

Several of the men, who are hauling spruce timber from Flock's Camp to Lake Kezar, are boarding at Harry Hill's, S. D. Wilson's and Leonard Gammon's.
The Agricultural Department at Washington has issued over 500 bulletins of interest to farmers. A list of the subjects treated can be had by addressing Congressman McGillivray at Washington, D. C., or the Agricultural Department. Such bulletins as you want will be sent free to you by the asking.

Heroic Women.

Reading of heroic women, recalled to my mind a true incident of the early days in Woodstock, which was told to me by the lady herself. She was the second wife of Silas Billings, a farmer living in that part of the town known as the Billings' neighborhood, because of several families residing there by that name.
Mr. Billings had a log trap set for a bear up on the side of the mountain above his house, and for several days had been unable to go to it on account of a severe attack of rheumatism. But feeling quite sure there was a bear in the trap (or cubing, as it was called) he sent his stepson up to investigate. When he returned saying there was a bear caught in the trap, he was sent to the neighbors to get help to get the animal out.
As it was late in the afternoon of a cloudy autumn day, Mrs. Billings feared night would come before that could be done, and as the family were greatly in need of the meat, she also feared perhaps the creature would die before help came and thus be a loss and decided to do what she could herself. Seizing herself with a stout rope and butcher knife, and taking her stepdaughter, a young girl, along for company, she went up the mountain. She found the trap with the bear alive, but getting uneasy.
Throwing the rope over his head, the plucky woman drew it back, making a slip knot, and then cut the bear's throat. Part way down the mountain, she met the animal dead and well.
The writer of this sketch was well acquainted with Mrs. Billings, who was a quiet, kindly woman and beloved by her friends, and I have also walked up the well beaten path and viewed the crumbling ruins of the old log trap. Women of those days did many brave deeds for their families; that those of today would shudder to think of.

Things Good to Know

For Grip or Colds.
Take the juice of one lemon, two spoonful sugar, one level spoonful of ginger, place all in a glass, fill with two inches of the top with hot water; now add one spoonful of sweet spirits of nitre. This is fine. Try it.
Getting Rid of Roaches.
Equal portions of cornmeal and red lead mixed with molasses and spread on plates, or take a quantity of powdered white sugar and mix thoroughly with quarter of Paris.
A weak solution of turpentine poured down the water pipe once a week will drive water bugs away.
For Buffalo Bugs.
Take one pint of alcohol and two ounces of corrosive sublimate. After it has dissolved add one pint of soft water. It is said it will kill the most insect and if applied thoroughly the first time will not have to be used again.
For Bed-bugs.
Get one gallon of gasoline and one-half lb. of gum camphor, cut the camphor up fine and add to the gasoline and let stand until dissolved. Get an atomizer that will give out a good spray and put around every where where they are. Sure and inexpensive. Will not soil wall paper.
The Skunk.
"The family of skunks makes a good showing," I remarked to the friend who was with me. True some folks have ridiculed Maine for protecting skunks under the new revision of our laws, yet last month the Federal government added this "much despised animal" to the list of "Natural Resources" and said, "The skunk should be protected and protected before extermination. The Department of Agriculture classifying this animal as of 'great economic importance,' in a statement made public recently, says that it is even the same protector the federal agents have been compelled to exercise in the prevention of bird slaughter.
"Some of the most destructive insects in agriculture are such as do their work below ground and out of reach of any method that the farmer can apply and it is against many of these that the skunk is an inveterate enemy."
The statement asserts:
"Notwithstanding all of this, there is probably not an animal at it as ruthlessly slaughtered as this one."
Why should our Maine laws be laughed at, even if some of them are a failure?

Norway People in California

San Diego, Cal.
Well as I have nothing special on my hands this morning I will drop you a few lines, telling you about the trip we have just returned from, over in the Imperial Valley.

We started Sunday morning at seven o'clock, Gilbert and his wife, Len Russell, Cora and I. We took Gilbert's new '35' Overland, and with the five of us and what baggage we had, we had a mighty good load.

Out over El Cajon boulevard straight into the East we rode, through twenty miles of grain fields, orange groves, dairy ranches, poultry farms. At last we came to the low rolling foothills and after a few more miles the Cottonwood Grade. Up this we sailed on high gear for although the grade is a steep one the road bed is perfect, being built of decomposed granite, which after being traveled over for a time acquires the firmness of a solid rock.

Cottonwood grade is eight miles long, and then we crossed a long stretch of high range country with an occasional ranch and a few trees, cottonwood and live oak. The sage brush was in blue up here and the light purple of the sea of blossoms was a pleasant contrast to the background of rocky hills. It is from this sage blossom that the famous sage honey of California comes, and it was along here that we saw many beehives and their little cities of white tiles, nestled in some sheltered spot in the hills.

Campo is the next town. A combination store and post-office, two or three small shops and a few houses. To which a few miles more and you have a picture of this mountain town. Some more range country and we began the descent to the desert, down the Mountain Spring Grade. Here the road is carved from the solid granite along the edge of Devil's Canyon and the utmost caution is called for in driving, for a little mistake would mean a plunge over the edge and a fall of from anywhere from ten to eight hundred feet, to the bottom of the dry river bed, where the one of the sharp curves a white steamer poked her nose around the corner about three feet in front of us. We got by alright but with no time to stop and the outside wheels crumbling the loose dirt and sending them rattling to the rocks far below.

I have read of narrow trails that would a sinuous way down the face of some cliff, but I never dreamed of anything like this. I can't describe it, one must see it themselves to realize what a colossal undertaking it must have been to put a road through here and to appreciate the grandeur of the scenery.

Part way down there a point where you can look out onto the desert. Here we stepped the car, and just looked and wandered.

Far below it stretches away to the purple distance, a mighty sea of sand.
Over it all hangs a thin veil of heat-haze, deepening in the far-away until it looks almost like smoke and hides the sand completely, while through and above it, springs the bulk of the mountains; the barrier that encloses this great stretch of desolation.
We finish the descent of the grade and come to the sand. Here the car will run for miles without guidance from the driver, held to its course by the deep ruts in the sand, that other auto have made.

Far away across the sand there is a little store, a well and a corral, that is built of cactus stalks. Here an old man and his wife live and eke out an existence from the passing autoist, by selling them soft drink, candy, tobacco, etc.
This place is called Coyote Wells.
A dozen miles more of sand, and we reach the first town in the desert, Oreley. A few houses, two or three windmills and a flag-pole, and we are again gliding sand.

Between Oreley and the next town, Dixieland, we cross the big out that the Colorado river made when it jumped its channel a few years ago, and came down through there.

At Dixieland we find alfalfa fields afforded for horses feed for the fine looking cattle and horses. Here we saw our first cotton growing, great fields of it stretching away, the white splashes of the ripened cotton reminding one of snow.

Here to El Centro, about sixteen miles, it is practically all cotton. We reached there at 2:30, tired and dusty, having covered 130 miles of all varieties of road.

We made El Centro our headquarters while in the valley from there we visited all the other towns in the valley, with the exception of Calexico. In fact we saw the whole valley.

Tuesday morning we drove down to the Salton sea at the south side of the valley, and took some pictures. Here we saw flocks of pelicans, hundreds in number, which rose from the high reeds, or "tules" as they are called here, and circled overhead, their snow white plumage and brilliant yellow bills making a very pretty picture.

El Centro is a bustling little town and not so small either. There is everything there that can be found in any big city with the exception of electric cars. Of course it is a city of stores more than of manufacturing. It is the only manufacturing plant being a cotton gin, this we visited and watched the process from the time it was taken from the farmer's carts by the big suction pipe, until it reached the baling press. Also the process of extracting the oil from the seed, and the grinding of the oil-cake to make the cotton-seed meal that we use for cattle feed back home. It was very interesting to us people from a snow country, something new to us ever saw.

We stopped while there at the Hotel Oregon and to give you an idea of the freedom of money in the valley will simply say that a room there costs $5.50 per night, meals extra, and they have a full house all the time.

The boys bought a lot while there and are planning to build a brick block of stores with rooms overhead in the future.
The weather there now is simply ideal but in the summer I suppose it gets pretty hot. It is certainly a great country over there, and when you stop and think that only a short 15 years ago the valley was practically uninhabited it is wonderful.

El Centro is 52 feet below sea-level and the Salton sea 100 feet. The sea is strange to see. It is only a few miles from here and I saw them used here and when I saw them and saw the store windows full of saddles, bits, "chaps" and other riding apparel thought of Ed and how he would like to be out here.

We left El Centro for home yesterday morning (Wednesday) at 7:30, and got home at 8:30. We came back part of the way the same way as we went as is the only road; and then after we had

FOR THE GRIP

Peruna is Sometimes Used With Good Results

A great many people use Peruna for the grip.
Some use it as soon as the grip
begins, taking it during the acute stage of the disease, claiming for it great efficacy in shortening the disease, and especially in shortening
the after stages.

Mrs. Jane Gift.
Many people take it after they have had the grip. Their convalescence is slow. They have suffered along for a month or two, without any signs of complete recovery. Then they resort to Peruna as a tonic, with splendid results.

Mrs. Jane Gift, R. F. D. 1, Athens, Ohio, whose portrait appears above, writes: "I think I would have been dead long ago if it had not been for Peruna. Six years ago I had the grippe very bad. The doctor came to see me every day, but I gradually grew worse. I told my husband I thought I would surely die if I did not get relief soon.

"One day I picked up the newspaper and accidentally found a testimonial of a woman who had been cured of grip by Peruna. I told my husband I wanted to try it. He went directly to the drug store and got a bottle of Peruna. I could see the improvement in a very short time and was soon able to do my work. I continued using it until I was entirely cured."

Mr. Victor Patneau, 323 Madison St., Toledo, Ohio, writes: "Twelve years ago I had a severe attack of lagrippe and I never really recovered my health and strength, but grew weaker every year, until I was unable to work.

"Two years ago I began using Peruna and it built up my strength so that in a couple of months I was able to go to work again. This winter I had another attack of la grippe, but Peruna soon drove it out of my system. My wife and I consider it a household remedy."

Those who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

crossed the desert we took a different route and came home by the way of Desecano and Julian.

Before reaching Desecano we came through a valley, the most beautiful and the nearest like home of anything I have seen in California.

It is called Pine Valley and lies in the high country. It is probably three miles long, running east and west and a mile broad. The land bottom is smooth grazing land and through its center runs a little mountain brook cold and clear as a crystal. Back where the ground begins to rise to the encircling mountains great pines lift their green heads toward the heaven, sky and whisper of the mountain breezes in their branches makes a fellow from home feel like getting out of the car to go to them and give them a good hug. Cora fell in love with the place at sight and I don't know who it ever since we got home.

How I would like to own a ranch up here, for is there not the peace and quietude of the outdoors, the beautiful mountains around you, the mighty majestic pines for company, good crop and grazing land, and last but not least, the year around freshness of April and the presence of fine cool running water and living springs.

It is just about an even fifty miles from San Diego, about a two hours' drive with a car.

WEST PARIS.

Israel F. Emmons, Israel F. Emmons died at West Paris, Jan. 15th at the age of 76 years, 8 months and 7 days. The cause of his death was injury by a fall.

He was born in Biddeford, May 8, 1837, the son of Jacob and Sarah (Shepard) Emmons and received his school education in Biddeford.

Since nine years of age he was self-supporting. He served in the Civil War in Company F, 23rd Regiment, Maine Volunteers.

When about 15 years of age he went to sea and followed that career for several years.

Mr. Emmons was in business, conducting a general grocery and dry goods store 17 years in Greenwood, during which time he was also postmaster and 17 years in West Paris, after which he retired from an active business life.

He was a member of Granite Lodge, F. & A. M.; also a member of West Paris Lodge of Odd Fellows.

He married in Leeds, December 28, 1871, Francis Bishop Hayes and they have one daughter, Bertha A. Emmons, buyer with Owen Moore & Co., of Portland. The widow and daughter survive him; also Karl W. Hayes, a boy 16 years old, who on the death of his mother, but two years of age went to live in Mr. Emmons' family, and this has been home to the boy, who has been a member.

Karl is the son of Austin J. and Grace (Smith) Hayes, the father being the son of Mrs. Emmons by a former marriage.

Mr. Emmons leaves three brothers and one sister, all of West Paris. David Emmons, Winfield Emmons, Millard Emmons and Mrs. Christiana Emmons.

The funeral was private at the late home, the F. & A. M. Lodge officiating. The clergyman in attendance was Rev. C. H. Young. There was singing by Mrs. F. S. Farum, Mrs. S. T. White, H. R. Tuell and Edwin Stearns. The bearers were members of the Masonic order. The remains were placed in the tomb.

An opportunity was given his many friends to pay their last respects from 1 to 2 o'clock previous to the funeral.

Mr. Emmons has been in failing health for the past few years, during the time having two or three hard sicknesses, but each time he rallied and went about his small work about the barn and farm.

On Saturday afternoon, previous to his death, he started out to do his chores, but was gone a little longer than usual.

Mrs. Emmons was not alarmed at first, thinking that he had found something extra to see to. Still he did not come so she went to the barn and looked all around; not seeing him she called and he answered, so she went back. Presently their grandson, Karl Hayes, came in and they both went to the barn again. She called again and he answered. This time they went to the cellar stairs where came the sound of the answer, and found Mr. Emmons lying on the floor at the foot of the stairs. They went to him but found they could not help him up alone so Karl went for help and Charles Curtis went and carried Mr. Emmons up the stairs and into the house.

A physician was called and everything done but he did not rally. He recognized his family at intervals but gradually failed to the end.

In his early life he traveled considerably, being in the South at the time of the Civil war, and enlisted as a nine months volunteer and went on duty as cook. His parents came to Greenwood to live and there finally he became interested in trade for several years. During that time he was town liquor agent and the man who wanted anything in that line for any purpose beside medicinal use received a decided refusal which he knew was final. Mr. Emmons, while in Greenwood he became acquainted with Mrs. Fannie Hayes and they were married at the home of her sister in Leeds. In 1887 he went to West Paris and purchased the Booth Whittemore stand.

Soon after he came here he built the store and dwelling now owned and occupied by L. H. Fisher, and ran a grocery and dry goods store. His family also moved into the living part of the building and rented his first purchase to his brother, David. It was in this store that the late Dr. A. J. Hayes, also Mrs. Emmons, were his efficient helpers in the store work. In to his last illness failing health he decided to retire from business and sold out to P. J. Miles of Berlin, N. H., and he and his family moved back into his first West Paris home, where he remained, keeping a cow and horse and doing light farming until his decease. In his later life, and especially since his retirement from business, he has been one who stayed closely at home, preferring it to any and all outside interests or amusements. His whole happiness was centered in his home.

He has been very successful in his mercantile life and his entire life has been one of honesty and uprightness in all his dealings. He had other commendable features of character unlike the ordinary person.

A Sudden Death.

George Alexander McDonald, a comparative stranger, died very suddenly at his home on Hill street, last Tuesday night. He had been sick with a cold the week previous but that day had gone back to work on his job in the Paris Manufacturing factory. He came home and ate a good supper but not feeling quite strong they retired early.

About 11 he awoke and went to the kitchen for a drink of water. When he returned he complained of a pain in his stomach and lying down he straightened and struggled for breath. His wife immediately arose and called for help and then went for a doctor, but before she returned he had passed away.

Mr. McDonald was the son of Samuel S. and Sallie Hartford McDonald and was born in Maldstone, Vt. He had been married twice before, his first wife being Eveline Blodgett of Groveton, N. H., the second wife Alice Brooks of Biddeford. March 9, 1909, he married Mrs. Hattie Sanderson Chase of Colebrook, N. H.

Last May they came here in answer to an advertisement of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Dearborn, who wished for help. After awhile they left them and went to house keeping in the old money house upstairs, where he died.

Besides his wife he leaves an aged father over 90 years old and a sister, Mrs. Eliza Blodgett of Lancaster, N. H. He had always followed the farmers' occupation until he came here. He was also handy with carpenter's tools. He was honest in his deal and meant to be square with the world but his sudden death left his widow in very poor circumstances.

The remains were taken to his former home in Lancaster, N. H., Friday morning, where the funeral services were held. Mrs. McDonald returned last Monday and packed her few personal belongings and sold the household
